CHIEF'S MESSAGE

Aaniin Brothers and Sisters:

We hope that you and your family enjoyed a safe and happy holiday and celebrated the season with joy; and that this New Year will bring health and happiness in your lives.

Chief and Council attended membership meetings on reserve and in Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie recently to discuss important issues raised by our membership with regard to the Community Trust and moving forward with the Custom Election Code which was initiated in previous years. We will be providing our membership with additional information through separate mail-outs on these two issues, as both will require a vote and ratification by the membership, so we encourage you to keep your address current with our membership department.

We continue to pursue our efforts through renewable energy and have met the application standards for the Feed In Tariff program as required and it is a matter of the "waiting game" in order to further our Dore Project; we are in the last phases of a 12 month wind study to develop sufficient data in the wind farm initiative; we continue to work with our partners in the pursuit of biomass energy in our association with St. Mary's Paper. We will be undergoing a Comprehensive Community Planning study as our last Capital Planning Study was actually done a decade ago. We are currently undergoing a Road Engineering Design study on the rail bed acquired by us some years past to provide alternative access to the community and future development on the settlement lands.

Our staff have done a great job in getting direct benefits out to our members through the policies in place and we will continue to explore options and opportunities for our membership through benefits in future.

We always encourage education and training for our youth and adult members in academic and industry related careers and have been able to allocate some additional funding to this end.

Our heartfelt prayers go out to those families who have lost members over these past months.

Chi Miigwetch, Chief Joe Buckell

Band Business (December—February)

First Nation Business -February 2010

Chief and Council did not hold regular meetings in November due to the scheduling of membership information meetings in Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie and in December 2009 for the annual shutdown during the Christmas Holidays. At the regular meeting in January 2010 Chief and Council approved minutes, discussed member requests, cheque disbursements, funding applications and annual funding reports. Committees met as required or rescheduled meetings where necessary.

Finance – MFN Bank accounts are sufficient to meet financial obligations.

MFN has been approved for funding and under various programs, including the First Nation Infrastructure Fund, Industry Canada, Governance Capacity Development, and provincial agencies in the amount of approximately $1.2 million dollars during the 2009-2010 fiscal period. , in addition to its annual core funding from INAC.

The Corporate Trust (Boundary Claim Trust)

The Corporate Trust investments had a market value of approximately $31,710,559 and earned an interest income of $1,172,327 in 2009.

Direct Benefits to Members

As of the end of December 2009, MFN provided benefits to over 670 members and issued $1,017,000 through the Better Living Policy; $19,133 through the Funeral Policy and $9,700 through the Community Trust Education Policy.

Through special allocations for Educational purposes MFN has contributed an additional $200,000 to its Education Budget for Adult Education and Training in this fiscal year and continued to support education and training within its policies and guidelines.

Dore Project – MFN is awaiting Ontario's decisions with its submission for the Feed In Tariff program which was created as a result of Ontario's green energy announcements. This would enable MFN to secure a place in queue for the ability to sell power on the hydro grid, it's been a very long process and subject to federal/provincial requirements as well as Ontario's hydro capacities. With the onset of Wind Power, Solar Power and Biomass there is strong competition in the energy markets and MFN is researching all aspects of renewable energy.

Casino Rama Revenues– Casino Rama revenues are down approximately 50% from previous years.

Community work is nearing completion on health and safety retrofits and upgrades as approved in 2009 and as funded through special projects with INAC and CMHC initiatives. The community rink was flooded and functional during the cold snap over the holidays but milder temperatures have reduced conditions for skating.

Continue..

Band Business

Training workshops and skills upgrading will continue for community construction and maintenance crews in the latest technologies and building practices throughout this year with building better communities as a focus towards safer and healthier housing.

Youth and Elders Surveys were provided to all members on our mailing list and to date only about 40 responses have been received. With the support and direction of Chief and Council, your responses will be seriously considered and we will endeavor with assistance from community members and staff to make this year's gathering as successful as in previous years.

We have undergone some changes in our administration and member service areas in our commitment to find better ways and means of providing members with programming and information through prompt and compassionate service, to the best of our abilities. Our best wishes in this New Year.

Education, & Training

Michipicoten High School with the support of Michipicoten First Nation has partnered together to provide an Aboriginal Cultural Room. The purpose of this room is to unite and provide cultural awareness for all students.

We are asking Michipicoten First Nation members to submit their personal stories in their educational journey. Your story, along with a photo of yourself, will be posted in the Cultural Room on our inspirational Aboriginal Wall of Fame.

Your thoughts, your story, and where you are today may just encourage our students in pursuing further education and help prepare them for courses they may need to take while in high school.

Or by mail to:

The Education Office,
Michipicoten First Nation,
Box 1, Site 8, RR #1,
Wawa, Ontario P0S 1K0

Or call the Education Office – 705-856-1993, ext #218

Photos may be from a year book, your graduation, or a photo of you now.

Miigwetch in advance for fostering growth in our First Nation's children's success.

We are all motivated by a keen desire for praise, and the better a man is, the more he is inspired to glory.

Economic Development Department

January 2009 marked the beginning of what would be a very busy year for the Economic Development Department. Since that time, there has been a significant increase in the demand for retraining, skills development and second career training.

We have been diligently working with members both on and off-reserve to assist them in identifying potential career paths and the steps necessary to achieve their goals.

Early February 2009 was when the first wave of members started Heavy Equipment Operator (HEO) training; in less than one year, Michipicoten First Nation has processed and enrolled twelve (12) members in HEO training, and we're excited and very proud to say that all twelve successfully complete the HEO training.

The second most popular training initiative this year was the Basic Underground Hard Rock Miner Common Core training offered in partnership between Northern College and Richmond (Island Gold) Mine. We have had one member complete the training, at which time; they were offered a full-time position with the mine. We currently have three (3) members participating in the training which they are scheduled to graduate from on March 11, 2010. In conversation with some of these members and Northern College representatives, we have heard great things about the program. We've also heard that, in no way, shape or form is this training easy; it has even been compared to Military Boot Camp! The work is hard, but in the long run these members will get valuable training and skills to begin their careers in the mining industry.

In addition to Heavy Equipment Operator training and the Common Core training, we have sponsored a variety of other training initiatives for members including, AZ Licensing, Pipe Welder Training, Marine & Small Powered Equipment Mechanic

As an added note, we have only listed the members who have processed their training requests through the Economic Development Department; we have not included the many other members who have accessed training dollars directly through Anishinabek Employment & Training Services (AETS).

As of right now, Michipicoten First Nation has exhausted their training budget for the 2009/2010 fiscal year; however the 2010/2011 fiscal year begins April 1st, 2010. If you are interested in a specific training opportunity, please contact the Band Office and we will assist you in accessing what you need to successfully upgrade or train in a new career.

If you're interested in starting a business, we can help you with that too! We have access to many valuable resources and programs to help entrepreneurs turn their ideas and plans into reality.

We are available to assist you Monday to Thursday, 8:00am to 4:30pm and Friday 8:00am to 1:30pm. Please contact us for additional information and referral.

Balance What Is Already Known

Ho le anpetu ki le wico iye eya oblakin kte yelo! On this day I wish to speak about what is already known. Known by all, but understood by few, and followed by less.

We were taught that we all came to this Earth Walk as spirits learning to be human, not as humans learning to be spirits. Being human is a complicated life path made simple by the original instructions given to us by our ancestors. This ancestor some may call God or the Creator, but we were taught to be Wakan Tanka, the Great Mystery, the Great Sacred or the Great Spirit. I have spent over a third of my life learning from my elders, trying not to close my mind to other people's teachings (which I have been guilty of many times), I have learned not only the old traditional teachings of Chanunpa and Olowan (pipe and song) but the basic knowledge of balance in life. There are so many who "Talk the talk" but do not "walk the walk". This is because our balance is off. We need to understand balance as it relates to our own individual lives before we can learn about balance outside of our personal space.

Learning personal balance is like a child learning to walk. I see my daughter standing there holding the end of a small stick that I also hold in my hand. With the support of the stick she walks around and around, showing off her new power and skill. I let go of the stick and she continues to walk proudly. Then she looks up and finds no one is holding the stick and she sits down with a puzzled look on her face. "Where did my balance go?" The first time she walked was from my husband's trusting arms into my loving embrace. The thread is still there in our hearts this connection forever from her to me and through her to my grandchildren. Her balance was her own, her path a straight one. Some thirty years later, I pray for her as I do all of my children to have her own path and her own balance.

Our children may have some obstacles in their young lives, just as we all have; but as in our own way, we must let the young people learn to trust their balance to judge their own way. Each decision is made holding the good and bad of the consequence of the choice. This is Wakan Tanka in the simple form. For nothing is all good or all bad, just as you and I it has a middle point of balance. When Wakinya the Thunderer sends his glance upon the plains the spark brings the fires that cause destruction but also brings new life. When Iktomi the spider trickster, fools us, his tricks usually leave him worse off, and us with a lesson learned.

I have seen lately the balance coming fast to those who would do harm or cause pain to others, the justice is swift as the hawk and twice as deadly. One elder spoke to me of balance in his life. He told of living the wild young life only to come full circle and "Follow the Pipe". The way of the Pipe is a door he said that opens the lodge to knowledge of true balance in life. No matter what people you come from, no matter your color or your place of origin, each person hold in their spiritual genetic being the instruction of their "First People". Those instructions tell them how to find balance in their lives. Ritual, ceremony, and religion are all part of the remembering; when people have lost these they become disconnected and lose their balance. People of multi-races must often learn the origin stories of all their ancestors before finding the balance they need. Some will never learn their own ancestor's original stories and they may find balance in our thread from the Sacred Tree.

Some think it wrong to find balance in life from other people's stories, but that thinking is wrong. In all stories lay the threads of the sacred tree of knowledge it spreads all over the earth and connects us all as one. These threads are deep in the Earth Mother, like her veins that carry the water these threads also carry the wisdom and knowledge of balance.

Interesting Insert*HONOURING OUR ELDERS

There tends to be varying opinions and interpretations on what constitutes the definition of an Elder in the Aboriginal culture which may be dependent upon community, region, or tribal based philosophies, on who is considered an Elder. In 1998 Canada produced a publication, in partnership with the Aboriginal Peoples of First Nations, to give industry and communities alike a generally accepted protocol with regard to Elders.

An Elder can be a man or woman whose wisdom about spirituality, culture, teachings and life example is recognized. Not all Elders are "old". Sometimes the spirit of the Creator chooses to imbue a young Aboriginal person. The community and individuals will normally seek the advice and assistance of Elders in various areas of traditional as well as contemporary issues.

Calling on an Elder for advice or teaching: Whenever approaching an Elder, start by asking if the Elder will accept tobacco for you to speak with him or her. If your offer of tobacco is accepted, it means the Elder is available to listen, and then you can ask for guidance and assistance. Find an Elder who is involved or familiar with the topic. Offer tobacco and acknowledge the Elder's contribution.

Calling to request an Elder for opening and closing prayers: Talk about what is taking place. Explain why the Elder is invited. Offer tobacco and invite the Elder. If the Elder accepts the tobacco, the Elder will come. The Opening Prayer serves to bless the meeting or the process to follow (feast, social, ceremony, etc.). The Elder speaks through the Creator to ensure that participants feel right about the process. The Closing Prayer is to thank the participants and honour the work that was done. The Elder blesses the completion of the process. If you have an Opening Prayer, you must have a Closing Prayer, the two go together.

Calling an Elder for full participation in a meeting or having an Elder as a member of an advisory board: Talk to the Elder about what is taking place and explain why the Elder is invited. Describe the nature of the Elder's involvement, from contributing to the process simply by being present, the Elder's spirit provides a good feeling, to full participation, including decision making as required. Offer tobacco to request the Elder's participation and if the tobacco is accepted the Elder will participate.

Does the role of a male Elder differ from that of a female Elder: All Elders are different, whether man or woman; and between First Nations their roles may differ. They have their strength to offer and traditional areas they may work in. The key is to find an Elder who is knowledgeable and who may be right for the issue in question.

What or how is the most respectful manner in which to approach an Elder, and how to show gratitude: Tobacco equals honour. There should be only one purpose per tobacco offering, and if you cannot access traditional tobacco, pipe tobacco may be used instead (either Captain Morgan or Drum is good).

Elders often receive honoraria to cover their expenses (travel, hotel, meals and time spent away from home and family). Financial transactions should be discrete; payment provided separately and when an Elder requires a Helper, costs should be covered for both. Often times a blanket or basket is passed through the community to assist in a financial contribution for the Elder. Gifts may be given which could include basket of fruit, cloth in traditional colours, tobacco pouches, herbal teas and natural products of the land. A written acknowledgment to thank the Elder for their contribution or a letter of gratitude is always a nice gesture.

It is important to remember our Elders in anything that we do, and we should always acknowledge them. They have wisdom, life experience and traditions to share with us. We too, Creator willing, may some day be considered Elders in our communities.

MFN HONOURS ELDERS AT COMMUNITY FEAST

The Department of Indian Affairs sponsored a short video filming on the success of the Boundary Claim Settlement which took place on reserve with a film crew from Chikak Communications doing brief interviews with the Chief and Councillor William Swanson Sr. as head of the MFN negotiating team on the Boundary Claim. The community hosted a feast in honour of all our Elders and the Chief gave a speech noting that we honour our Elders no matter whether they live near or far. Elders were presented with gifts as were the film crew. Member Patti Goodfellow gave an opening and closing prayer and a great dinner was prepared by members Paula Penno and Elder Irene Piche. The short video will appear in future on INAC's website. Michipicoten is a success story and we are proud of our First Nation.

Chief, Council and Management held their annual staff Christmas Luncheon at the Kinniwabi Pines Restaurant this year. All enjoyed a beautifully prepared spread of soup, salad, roast beef dinner with Yorkshire pudding and delicious cakes for dessert.

Employees are acknowledged for their hard work during the year through the scheduled Christmas shutdown and a gift exchange.

MFN also hosts an annual community Christmas Party for members and their families as well as Chief, Council and staff with a very special visit from Santa bringing gifts.
